QUICK PAYMENT FOR DAMAGES

Regulars Pay promptly all Claims of Farmers for Damage to Land and Property. Claims Range from Sixty Cents to Five Dollars.

The promptness with which damages to crops and property are being adjusted at the camp of instruction is proving very gratifying to the farmers whose lands are being used for maneuvering purposes. Within twenty four hours all damages are adjusted and the claims paid.

The maneuvers Thursday afternoon aggregated in damage about one hundred dollars. This is considered very low, due largely to the fact that the soldiers have instructions to be as careful as possible of the crops and property of the farmers.

The claims on Thursday's maneuvering ranged from sixty cents to five dollars and included damage to fences, to crops and to other property. One woman appeared before Major Boughton, the provost marshal, and said the soldiers had taken three dozen eggs.

"How much were they worth?" asked the Major.

"Twenty cents a dozen" was the reply.

"Well, that is too bad especially as we are not allowed to pay damages for eggs. I suppose your chickens eat what when they get a chance?" he asked.

"Oh yes, when they get a chance." "Well then suppose we give you sixty cents for damage to wheat. Will that be satisfactory?"

The woman said it would and went home with the sixty cents well satisfied with the bargain.

COMPLAIN OF ROADS

The Munsey automobile run pathfinders criticize the roads in this section quite severely saying of their trip here:

"It was after a ride of 117 miles over the rough roads of Pennsylvania and Maryland that the pathfinders reached Baltimore in their E-M-F car. Notwithstanding the rough roads, which were punctuated with water bars about every 20 feet the pathfinders greatly enjoyed the ride from Harrisburg."

"Leaving the scenes of colonial days behind them the pathfinders yesterday emerged upon the greatest battlefield of modern times—that of Gettysburg. Under the guidance of a veteran of that great struggle, the pathfinders in their E-M-F car made a careful trip of inspection over the field, visiting all the places of interest."

"Leaving Gettysburg the pathfinders headed for Frederick which they reached after a ride over the Emmitsburg pike. While considerable toll is exacted from all those who use this road, no objection is ever made to the exactions, because of the road offers many attractions."

WON'T STORE NEW WHEAT

Proprietors of grain elevators in the vicinity of Waynesboro have notified wheat growers that no new wheat will be received for storage until after September 1.

This action is in line with the determination of the warehouse men in Chambersburg and some other sections and has been taken in order to prevent the filling up of the warehouses at a time when the grain cannot be promptly sold and shipped away.

ST. JAMES LOST ITS FIRST GAME

Lutheran Team Drops from First Place when Presbyterians Defeat them in a no-Run Game. Trouble about Players.

The St. James Lutheran Sunday School base ball team met their first defeat on Friday evening when they were downed by the Presbyterians 6 to 0. Darkness caused the game to be called at the end of the sixth inning.

Cashman pitched remarkably for the winning team and allowed but two hits, one of which was very scratchy. He blanked the side and in doing so struck out ten men. Frazer played brilliantly at second for the Presbyterians and the entire team played errorless ball. Oyster at second starred for St. James.

Both teams were considerably shaken up. St. James had only one man in his regular position. The Presbyterians had two men on the team, not members of the church or Sunday School. This, however, was agreed upon by the two captains before the game started. J. M. Smiley, president of the league, states that this will not be allowed again, no matter what agreement captains may reach, as it would completely disorganize the management of the league if officials of any teams could set aside rules at will.

The score Friday evening by innings was

Presbyterian 2 1 0 2 0 1-8
St. James 0 0 0 0 0 0-0

The standing of the teams in the league follows:

	Won	Lost	P. C.
Catholic	1	0	1.000
St. James	2	1	.667
Presbyterian	2	1	.667
Reformed	1	1	.500
United Brethren	0	0	.000

Methodist	0	2	.000

BONNEAUVILLE

Clayton Musser spent Sunday with Edward McGuigan.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Myers, a son.

GOOD CROPS

Some farmers in this section have finished cutting wheat and rye. On the average the crop is a good one. The corn is getting along pretty well and with favorable weather there will be a good yield. In the early part of the season it had a hard time getting a start, but the wet spell and warm weather helped it out. Oats is a good crop, while the hay has yielded much better than anticipated. The recent fair weather has enabled the farmers to house their crops in good conditions.

SNAKE IN FROG

The New Oxford Item is responsible for this:

"Mr. George Ehrhart, of Philadelphia street, captured a monster frog on Friday night in the Conewago creek. On killing the frog a water snake nearly two feet long was discovered in its stomach. And this is no frog nor snake story either."

AT the clearance sale—colored taffeta petticoats—lavender, garnet, blue, brown and grey—nicely ruffled, good quality were cheap at $5.00, now $3.95. G. W. Weaver and Son.

DEPARTURE OF SOUTHERN MEN

Maryland and Virginia Militia Leave for their Homes after Spending Ten Days in Camp. Sham Battle an Interesting Event.

This morning the Virginia and Maryland militia who have spent the past ten days in the camp of instruction east of town left in long troop trains for their homes. The first train was scheduled to leave at 5:30 and the others followed at half hour intervals until half past ten. The entraining was done quickly and without any undue confusion, the railroad arrangements being of the best.

The New Jersey troops will arrive by special trains early tomorrow morning and their camp should be in full running order by eight o'clock. They will occupy the same ground as the Marylanders had during the first portion of the camp. Pennsylvania troops will start to arrive about two o'clock in the afternoon and the infantry will take the positions which the Virginia troops were allotted during the first period. The Pennsylvania cavalry will be situated between the Regular Infantry and Artillery. About 3900 soldiers will reach camp Sunday.

The sham battle on Friday afternoon was witnessed by a number of Gettysburg people. The victory was awarded to the Reds who attacked the Blues defending Granite Hill. The Blue infantry was stationed in the long railroad cut and made a spirited defense against several brilliant charges of the Reds but were caught in a flank movement, their entire right wing being enveloped. A cavalry charge was one of the most spectacular events of the battle.

There was no actual clash between the opposing forces, the officers fearing injuries from "club" muskets or powder burns should the troops get close enough and as a result "recall" was sounded when the fight was thick.

There were few heat prostrations and no accidents to be worthy of notice.

CHARGES AGAINST CARROLL

Governor Mann, of Virginia, had the summary court trial of colored Trooper Carroll stopped Friday after but two or three witnesses had given their testimony. All the officers of the First Virginia Regiment waited on the Governor and asked him to request that Carroll be tried by a general court martial, instead of by a summary court. They were afraid the man would either get off entirely or receive but a minor punishment. Governor Mann at once acceded to the request of the officers, and it is likely that the papers in the case, with a recommendation from General Wetherston, will be forwarded to the commander of the Department of the East, at Governor's Island, for his action.

Carroll is charged with having drawn his pistol on Lieut. Ernest M. Hardy, of Company B, Richmond, who was officer of the guard in the First Regiment camp last Monday evening, and also on Corporal J. E. Truehart, of Company A, Richmond, who was corporal of the guard. The colored trooper pleaded not guilty when arraigned before the summary court on Friday. Virginia militiamen are endeavoring to make all they can out of the case. It seems that the sympathies of the regulars in camp, officers as well as enlisted men, are with the accused, who has been in the service a long time.

AUTO ACCIDENT

Clayton Spahr, of East Berlin, has a fractured arm and numerous bruises as the result of his first attempt to run an automobile. Mr. Spahr in company with a dealer while descending the hill at Edward Reynolds's, in some way lost control of the machine and struck the iron bridge at the foot of the hill with such force that two posts were broken off and the auto badly bent. Mr. Spahr was thrown from the car and landed on his left arm, dislocating and fracturing it at the elbow. Dr. R. E. Lau was summoned and gave the necessary surgical treatment.

NEW STINGING BUG

Farmers of this and adjoining counties are greatly annoyed by an insect which resembles a mosquito. One farmer, who was ploughing, was compelled to quit work on account of the bugs stinging himself and horses. Berry pickers are compelled to protect their faces and hands by a heavy covering to avoid the vicious attacks of the new winged terror, the stinging of which is more painful than that of a mosquito.

AT the clearance sale—all the balance of fine lingerie waists will be sold as follows, were $2.00 and $2.25, now $1.69; were $3.00 and $3.25 now $2.49; were $3.50 and $3.75, now $2.98; were $5.00 now $3.95. An elegant chance for money saving. G. W. Weaver and Son.

SPRAYING POTATOES

In some potato patches in this vicinity, it is stated the vines have turned yellow, and as a result the growth of the tubers has been stopped. Notwithstanding the excellent prospects a few weeks ago for a large yield, it is feared in some instances there will be a comparatively light yield. Some farmers contemplate spraying as for fruit trees. A farmer states that the trouble seems to be due to the flea beetle and early blight.

A remedy for this is to spray with bordeaux mixture and arsenate of lead. Use three pounds of bluestone and four pounds of lime in fifty gallons of water, and to this add from two to three pounds of arsenate of lead, or one-half pound of paris green. Spray thoroughly, and whenever it is washed off by hard rain, or once every two or three weeks. If the arsenate of lead is used it need not be repeated as often as in using paris green. This will also poison the potato leaves, so that the potato beetle will not attack them.

COMING WEDDING

G. C. Stover, son of the late Jacob A. Stover, of Gettysburg, and Miss Estelle E. Hemler, youngest daughter of Mrs. Mary Hemler, of Hanover, will be married at 4:30 a. m., Tuesday, July 12, at the rectory of St. Vincent's Catholic Church, by Rev. Father McCleary. Mr. Stover conducts a merchant tailoring establishment in Hanover.

VICTORIA REPORTED ENGAGED

Rumor Current Young Princess is to Marry Prince Edward.

London, July 9.—A rumor is current here that Prince Edward and Princess Victoria Louise are engaged.

It is said that the betrothal is not sanctioned by the royal family, owing to the ages of the prince and princess, who are both in their teens.

The Princess Victoria was once reported engaged to the young king of Portugal.

RAISED VEGETABLES IN HIS FRONT YARD

Man Arrested in Washington For Trying to Economize.

Washington, July 9.—George Winnie, who lives on New Jersey avenue and complains of the high cost of living, was arrested for raising vegetables in his front yard.

The warrant was sworn out by Police Officer Larry O'Day, who is noted for his aesthetic temperament and for his activity in enforcing all the laws intended to make Washington a "city beautiful."

There is a police regulation prohibiting the use of front yards for the growing of anything except flowers and ornamental plants. Winnie had planted corn, peas, beans and potatoes.

The case will come up in the police court. The victim explained that he was trying to save money, which seemed a trifle more important to him at this time than the beautifying of the national capital.

VANDERBILT SELLS CIGARS

Reginald C. Holds Fete at Newport Home to Aid Church.

Newport, July 9.—It seemed as if all the cottage settlement had met on the lawn of Oakland farm for a lawn fete to assist St. Mary's church, Portsmouth. Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt was hostess, and Mr. Vanderbilt sold cigars. Miss Kathleen Vanderbilt replenished the grab bag four times, so the Vanderbilt family from Sandy Point farm earned many dollars.

Alfred Vanderbilt had cabled to open everything from the training ring to the greenhouses. Mrs. Vanderbilt poured tea on the veranda.

Mrs. Philip Van Valkenburgh was one of the smartest gown women on the grounds. She wore a white princess gown and large picture hat to match. Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt wore white chiffon with a hobble skirt.

Farmers with their families mixed in with Newport society.

"It is all a matter of party duty with me now," said the Ohio man. He is spending the summer at his cottage here.

ELECTION SOLD TO MRS. YOUNG?

Charges Made Before Education Convention.

DENIAL BY THE ACCUSED

Closing Session of National Gathering Occupied by Close Study of Kindergarten—Other Work.

Boston, July 9.—Charles Foos, superintendent of schools at Reading, Pa., charged that the sum of $5000 was raised and spent to accomplish the election of Mrs. Ella Flegg Young, of Chicago, to the presidency of the National Education Association.

The assertion as the story spread among the thousands of teachers attending the great convention, made a tremendous sensation. Mrs. Young's friends stoutly and with great indignation denied the truth of the story.

For some days there have been rumors of a "barrel," and it has been suggested that publishing interests were deeply, if not unduly, interested in the outcome of the election, but not until twenty-four hours after the convention was stamped for the Illinois teacher did anybody flatly declare that money and plenty of it was utilized to swing the vote.

The last working sessions were much varied and extended over a wide range of subjects. These were more technical than the previous meetings, but all proved interesting to the host of teachers who thronged the meetings.

Nearly all the delegates remained for these final sessions. In fact more than half of those in attendance will stop in the city over Sunday.

"When graduates entering normal schools do not know maples from elms or robins from English sparrows, the biology or the administration of the high school is remiss," was the opinion expressed by C. H. Robinson, of Mont Clair, N. J., before the department of science.

The cry "back to the land" is as old as Adam, according to Anna E. Harvey, of Brooklyn, N. Y., addressing the kindergarten department. "Ever since he was driven out of the Garden of Eden," she said, "man has been longing to get back to the soil. It is instinctive in children."

PRISON A REFUGE

Pat Powers and His Friends Spend Night in Auburn.

Auburn, N. Y., July 9.—Pat Powers, the base ball magnate, was locked in Auburn prison Thursday night. With him were John K. Tener, Republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, and A. J. Fanning, Tom Taggart's secretary.

The trio, with their women folks, were enroute to the Elks grand lodge meeting at Detroit, and their auto broke down in the heart of the Montezuma marshes, eight miles from anywhere. Aid came from Auburn. They were towed back, and Warden Benham, a brother Elk, extended hospitality. The party spent the night in the prison, where 1500 convicts slumbered.

Chief Justice Fuller Buried.

Chicago, July 9.—The last rites over the body of the late Chief Justice Fuller were performed here. Interment was at Graceland cemetery, in a grave beside that of his wife. All courts were closed. Flags were at half mast and at the hour of the services seventeen minute guns boomed a salute.

Hatpin in Her Brain.

Boone, Ia., July 9.—A hatpin penetrated four inches into the brain of Mrs. Peter McDonald when she was thrown from a buggy in a runaway. Driving down a steep hill, the team became frightened. Mrs. McDonald was thrown out, striking on her head. Her hatpin penetrated the brain. It is believed she will die.

One of Monitor's Crew Dies.

Students of the good roads problem the country over assert that as a nation we lose annually the sum of $250,000,000 in hauling produce to and from market over poor highways. Here would seem to be a line along which the conservation theory might be worked to good advantage—conservation of horse power, wagon and harness, besides a whole lot of time and a good deal of patience.

SPORT IN ENGLAND.

A Pheasant Run is Not a Branch of the Poultry Business

"A Plain American in England," by Charles T. Whitfield, is a highly amusing narrative on the gentle art of British entertainment. It appears in the American Magazine, and in the course of some descriptions of English customs the author relates the following incident, which happened at a pheasant run:

"A friend for whom I have a great admiration took me to see a pheasant run. The place looked just like a big chicken yard such as we have at home. There were hundreds of the birds feeding on scraps and grain thrown to them by the keeper. I had seen strings of these birds hanging up in the markets for sale at low prices, had bought their eggs in the swell restaurants at high prices, and I naturally supposed that this trade was conducted like any other branch of the poultry business.

When you have been in England a short time you realize that you must approach the subject of trade or business with some delicacy, but I longed to know the modus operandi of poultry packing among the swells. I wondered if they could teach our Chicago stockyards anything. So I asked the keeper in my broadest English:

"How do you collect and ship these birds?"

"Collect 'em, sir?"

"Yes," I said, "how do you kill them and get them to market?"

"We don't kill 'em. We send in beaters and shoot 'em. It's great sport, sir!"

"That seemed to me a disgusting proposition—to beat a flock of tame, harmless pets to death and shoot their besides—and I remonstrated:

"Why don't you simply wring their necks with a quick twist of the wrist, insuring a rapid and painless death, and then—"

"But my friend grasped me violently by the arm and drew me abruptly away. I felt badly about it, because this good and valuable host said it would be at least twenty years before he could look that gamekeeper in the face with tranquillity."

RIVAL AVIATORS FLY TOGETHER

Curtiss and Brookins Have a Thrilling Contest.

BOTH PERFORM FEATS

Rose 200 Feet in the Air and Swept Around in Wide Circles Until Within 100 Feet of the Wildly Cheering Spectators.

Atlantic City, July 9.—Soaring aeroplanes that climbed 2000 feet into the air, then swooped down and darted along the crowded boardwalk, fancy stunts by Glenn Curtiss in his little machine, and by Walter Brookins, in his stately bright air craft, kept the Atlantic City crowd of thousands in a tremor of excitement during the big test day of the week's aero meet.

As a sensational finish of the day, Curtiss calmly soared off to Ventnor, dropped gently on the sand stretch of Ventnor Heights, where Lieutenant Hugh M. Willoughby is building a plane of his own, paid a call on his friend, while the crowd worked itself into a frenzy of excitement as an automobile darted up and down the avenues and roads, then as calmly glided up into the air and smilingly landed in front of the cheering crowd. No attempt was made at records. Brookins' highest flight was not over half the present altitude figures, but the cheering crowd enjoyed the evolutions, most of which took place in direct sight of the thousands gathered on the piers, boardwalk and beach.

As a beginning of the day Curtiss started out on an exhibition flight. Booming of guns and the ringing of the city hall fire bell started a general rush for the beach, but those kept back by business were given flashing glimpses of the aviator as he swept high in the air and partly over the city. The flight lasted ten and a half minutes, and sedate official description says that he made four circuits and gave an exhibition of banking.

Crowd Wild With Excitement.
Brookins made a false start, his plane failing to get enough start on the flat rail to rise into the air. The monorail was changed and given more of an incline and he got away. From that time on the crowd had excitement that brought out cheers and caused the more excitable to throw up their hats. The official description again gives its cold description of the Brookins performance as two wide circles, a figure eight and five close circles at a banking angle of forty-five degrees.

Curtiss gave a remarkable exhibition of dips when he rose a few moments later and crossed Brookins' wake to get sea and air room enough for his evolutions. To the thrilled spectators, however, the double exhibition was an exposition of the real daring of the up-to-date aviators and their wonderful control of their machines. Rising about 200 feet in the air, Brookins first swept around in wide circles, which he narrowed until he was swooping in what appeared to be 100 feet diameter, within 100 feet of the crowd, who cheered and huzzed as the daring young aviator took off his hat and waved it.

So close were the circles that the plane stood at an angle that pointed Brookins' head at the crowd on the upper decks of the piers and on hotel roofs. Not to be outdone, Curtiss, after a flight out to sea, suddenly swerved into the beach, whirled with the agility of a swallow and gave the remarkable exhibition of dip in a manner that swept the boardwalk with cheers. His plane ducked and whirled, tossing first one and then the other wing in the air as he shot out and back over the surf only a few feet from the spectators. Both landings were made with the greatest smoothness, Brookins having been in the air for nine minutes and thirty-three seconds, Curtiss five and a half minutes.

JERSEY LOSES TAX SUIT

State May Have to Refund $500,000 Collected Under Act of 1906.

Trenton, N. J., July 9.—The court of errors and appeals rendered a decision setting aside the tax of $27,600 levied on Standard Oil stock owned by the late Mrs. Martha T. Flske Colliard, of Rhode Island, who died in Cairo, Egypt. The court held that the collateral inheritance tax law of 1906 is not applicable to taxes assessed as legacies.

The result of this decision probably means that the state will be compelled to refund from one-quarter to one-half a million dollars that had been collected up to date under the act of 1906.

Print Million Roosevelt Books.
Hammond, Ind., July 9.—The W. B. Conkrie company, publishers, took a contract for printing 1,000,000 copies of "Roosevelt in Africa" for Charles Scribner's Sons, New York. It is said that this is the largest single order ever given.

Lightning Kills Woman.
Johnstown, Pa., July 9.—A bolt of lightning struck a store here, killing Mrs. Samuel Jenovese, who stood at the counter with her four-year-old son. The boy was unharmed. The bolt struck the woman in the temple, splitting her skull.

Nether bison nor bunch grass horses will eat corn when it is first put before them. The writer recently ran across a man who found the latter to be the case when he bought a team which the owner said he brought from Iowa with him because he thought so much of them. One was branded on the fore shoulder and the other on the rump, and the latter did not know corn from chestnuts.

BARONESS FALLS 150 FEET IN BIPLANE

Madam Delaroche is Badly Hurt at Rheims.

Bethany Plain, Rheims, July 9.—Baroness Delaroche, the first French woman to become an aviator, was probably fatally injured here by falling from a height of more than 150 feet.

The baroness had flown around the field once at a height of 240 feet, when suddenly she appeared to become frightened and confused at the approach of two other aeroplanes. She started to descend, but lost control of the machine. The aeroplane turned over and fell like a log.

The baroness' arms and legs were broken.

The doctors, after a careful examination, declared that the baroness' skull was not fractured and that she may live.

While momentarily conscious, the baroness explained that the rush of air from a motor passing over her head had frightened her, whereupon she cut the ignition and lost control of her machine.

ORDERED TO PRODUCE COOK

German Court Wants Explorer as Witness in Suit Against Peary.

Berlin, July 9.—The provincial court, which is hearing the case of Rudolph Franke against Commander Robert E. Peary to recover damages of $10,000, ordered Franke to produce Dr. Frederick A. Cook as a witness.

Franke, who was associated with Dr. Cook in North Polar exploration, demands $10,000 in return for a collection of furs, walrus and narwhal teeth which he alleges Commander Peary required him to surrender in consideration of taking him back home from Etah, where he had been left by Dr. Cook.

WROTE WILL ON TAG

Dying Man Used Card Torn From Freight Car.

Pittsburg, July 9.—A card torn from a freight car was filed in the probate court as the will of Robert J. McElroy, who, after being fatally injured by a freight train, scribbled on the card "Mary all that is mine is thine."

The will leaves an estate worth $5200 to his wife.

After writing the will McElroy signed the letter "R" but was unable to finish and another trainman completed the signature.

Boys Slain and Bound on Tracks.

Birmingham, Ala., July 9.—After being robbed and struck over the head by the bodies of Jeff and William King, nineteen and sixteen years old respectively, were tied on the tracks of the Louisville & Nashville railroad near Warrior, twenty miles from Birmingham, and a train passed over them, mashing their heads to a pulp. This is the view taken by Coroner Brashear, who is making a full investigation and has placed deputy sheriffs at work on the case.

John D. Rockefeller is 71.

Cleveland, O., July 9.—John D. Rockefeller celebrated his seventy-first birthday Friday just as he spends every other day of his summers at Forest Hill. He received a number of telegrams of congratulation from his friends.

The hay cap made of squares of thirty-six to forty inch A1 sheeting and weighted at the corners is coming into quite general use in haymaking sections which are subject to rains during the cutting season. From seventy-five to a hundred caps are usually required to cover an acre of hay in cocks. Carefully dried out and put away, the covers will last for many seasons. Whether they pay in any particular case can easily be determined by figuring the probable deterioration

BAG WORTH A FORTUNE MISSING

Traveler's Suitcase Disappears in New Jersey.

BULGING WITH SECURITIES

Railroad Company Making Every Effort to Find Bag Containing Over $30,000 Worth of Securities and Jewels.

New York, July 9.—Somewhere between Atlantic City and the White Star line pier here, a dress suit case bulging with stock certificates, jewelry, express checks, steamship tickets, cash and such things as are more commonly found in suitcases disappeared last Wednesday and has not turned up yet.

The suitcase was scheduled to accompany its owner and his father to get away to Europe on the Baltic, but it is still missing.

The bag belongs to W. C. Hite, an American who has lived in Rolle, Switzerland, and who came up with his father, Louis Hite, from the lower end of New Jersey the other day. Mr. Hite checked eight pieces of baggage to the White Star line pier, but when he went down there to look for them only seven had shown up.

In the bag, according to Mr. Hite, were $25,000 worth of Pullman Palace car stock, $2000 in American Express notes and about $3500 worth of other things, including $600 in cash and stockpiles, shirt studs, cuff buttons and other jewelry, and three suits of clothes and two steamship tickets, which cost about $450. Besides, there were four check books, three American and one Swiss.

After the Messrs. Hite had reached the Wolcott, the younger went down to see about his baggage, but it wasn't there. He went to his bank early on Thursday morning to have notices spread of the loss of the stock certificates and the express checks, and when he notified the railroad company of his loss he was immediately told to replace the steamship tickets at the company's expense and to get some more clothes and the company would make every effort to find the bag and restore it to him. As Mr. Hite is not partial to ready-made clothes it was arranged that if he does not find a cable when he reached London announcing the recovery of his effects he is to go to his tailor and have three new suits of clothes made.

TAFT VISITS MOODY

Did Not Discuss Retirement of Supreme Court Justice.

Beverly, Mass., July 9.—There was a revival of gossip about the supreme court appointments which President Taft is to make, when it was learned that the president and Captain A. W. Butt had motored over to Magnolia to see Associate Justice William H. Moody.

The White House let it be known that the president and Justice Moody had not discussed the question of the latter's retirement under the recent act of congress. No mention whatever was made of that subject. It was said the president feels great delivery in this matter. He has informed friends it seems probable, too, that Justice Moody, not having made up his mind as to whether or not he will accept the offer of congress, also wishes to refrain from mention of it, especially to the president. Mr. Taft frequently has expressed the hope that Justice Moody's illness would be conquered so that he might not feel compelled to quit the bench. For these reasons it was said the president and Justice Moody talked about other things.

July - Clearance - Sale

Our Stock sheet for July 1st., shows us that stock is much too large for good storekeeping. We are determined to greatly decrease it in amount within the next few weeks; so we have Price Marked Lots of Goods in every department, to which the only question was, what Price will sell it? We have also rummaged in every part of the store for Remnants and Odds and Ends, and the money saving on many of these articles, nearly all useable on the vacation trip, will add very materially towards paying the railroad fare and lengthening the stay.

TOO GOOD A SHAVE.

It Lulled Budd to Sleep While the Price of Stocks Tumbled.

One of the anecdotes in Joseph L. King's "History of the San Francisco Stock Exchange Board" is as follows: While stocks were quite low during a spell in 1873 a discovery of ore was made in Ophir, the stock advancing in price. It was the policy of those in control of a Comstock mine to keep secret any improvement until they could secure for themselves a good quantity of the stock. Budd heard of this Ophir discovery and bought some stock, and as the price advanced from $16 to $85 the profits on his purchases at low figures enabled him to buy more stocks. Being quite a plunger, he purchased in all 2,500 shares. As the stock still advanced to higher figures he sold about 3,500 shares, leaving him a balance of 1,000 shares when the stock reached $82, which would have given him quite a large profit if all were sold at that figure. During the recess that day he determined to sell the remainder, which would give him quite a profit. The afternoon session was devoted to the calling of outside stocks, occupying half an hour, after which the members would call up, through the chairman, any of the Comstock shares. Budd, thinking he had time sufficient during that first half hour to get shaved, sat down in a barber's chair and, being quite flush, gave the barber $5, directing him to give him a good shave. It turned out to be too good a shave, as Budd went to sleep, and the barber, being well paid, devoted quite a time in making his customer appear respectable. Budd woke up, looked at his watch and made a rush for the board. He ascertained that Ophir had been called and had broken so badly that when his stock was sold he only obtained $40 a share for it. He always claimed that that shave cost him just $40,000.

Getting Into a Life Buoy.

The average person in danger of drowning usually attempts to lift a life buoy over his head, with the result that he is immediately plunged deeper into the water. A good swimmer can do this with a sudden upward jerk, but with the non-swimmer it is almost an impossible feat. What he should do when he has seized the buoy is to place both hands, palms downward on the buoy on the part nearest the body, pressing it downward and slightly away, when the farther part of the buoy will rise out of the water and actually fall over the head. The arms can then be put through easily, "and there you are."

One who has tried it has found a life buoy an effective means of keeping afloat from a horse during hot weather. He keeps an oiled cloth in the barn and on this puts a few drops of carbolic acid. Every morning just before harnessing he rubs his horse over with this cloth, with the result that the flies keep at a distance.

USED UNIVERSALLY

CORTRIGHT METAL SHINGLES

WHEN Cortright Metal Shingles were first introduced (24 years ago) you had some excuse for being sceptical: But now— If you are sceptical it can only be because you do not know the facts in the case. They are used today from the Atlantic to the Pacific for all kinds of buildings, under all conditions. They are fireproof, stormproof; never leak and last as long as the building itself without needing repairs. For further detailed information apply to

PROFIT BY OTHERS' EXPERIENCE

Gray Hair Restored
My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

Grow Hair on a Bald Head
For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps coming thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

LIFE'S TOO SHORT FOR STRIFE.

Wonderful what little things cause big heart stings!

A hen flies over a garden wall, digs up a few onions, that is all. A brick flies out of the back door, and Biddy's scratching suits are over.

Then what a jaw wrangle and law tangle!

A cat pounces on a chick.

Then watch that broomstick and words fly thick! What a fussin' and mussin' and cussin'! "And friendship, like a spider's web, one blast of wind and it's all fled."

But life's too short for strife.

The law says hens must stay at home and scratch in their own patch and their owners must see that they do so, and he who will not obey the law, but allows his hens to destroy his neighbor's flower beds and garden and lets his dogs run on the lawns and porches, should be notified by the cops to quit or get it.

But that cat—

The Audubon society wants the 2,000,000 cats in the United States to be killed because they catch birds.

But they should count the birds on their hats, for it's woman that kills them and not pussy cats.

Some poultry men say, "Kill the cats; they kill chicks."

Yes, poor starved cats get 'em once in a while. Well fed cats don't.

There's poor old Tabby and her kittens. Her owner doesn't feed her. She catches a few rats and mice and then her babies go to starving.

She takes a chick, and some big hawk of a stinky man shoots her or sets poison and she dies a lingering death among her starving kittens.

The preachers discourse on "man's inhumanity to man." How about man's brutality to brutes or cruelty to cats?

One of the several advantages in living in a section where water power is abundant is the cheapness of electricity for lighting purposes. Instead of turning out the lights when going from one room to another to squeeze the meter at pay time, folks run their lights all night and their porch lights a good share of the forenoon.

TALL OATS

We notice a great deal of boasting of tall oats, but can this be beaten. Squire Hammers passed through a field of oats on his mother's farm July 4, pulled up a stalk of oats every 25 steps, at the side of the field he had 8 stalks in his hand, each stalk measured 63 inches and averaged 100 grains of oats. We say to the money men of Adams if a farm will produce such stalks without lime and manure, it would, if improved, produce oats 8 feet high, and the widow has offered this farm for the last three years at $35 per acre, soil better than hundreds of gardens. Come and see the place, will sell at once.

S. S. W. Hammers, Esq.

The folly of buying high priced land "unsight and unseen" as one swapped Jackknives in boyhood is nicely illustrated in the case of a couple of men who last winter invested in some Yakima valley fruit land after inspecting pictures of the tract when there was snow on the ground. This was in the winter. When they moved west in the spring to develop their ranches they found, much to their surprise, that the deeds they had paid a long price for gave them ownership to parcels of land composed of solid rock at the surface. It is a matter of satisfaction to know that the agents who thus aimed to defraud them were arrested, one already doing time in the penitentiary, while the other bids fair to occupy an adjoining cell.

There is no need of any farmer paying out any of his hard earned coin to secure the patent right to make concrete fenceposts or of his buying the right to sell such patent for a given area, for he may find out all he needs to know as to the making of concrete posts by writing to his congressman or to the department of agriculture at Washington for farmers' bulletin No. 403, which takes up the subject in detail, including the selection of materials, choice of molds and the way to make them, re-enforcing setting, fastening of wires, etc. The cement post will in most sections cost more than the best grade of wooden posts, but they improve rather than deteriorate with age, being immune to destruction by weather, insects or fire.

MAKING BUTTER IN HOT WEATHER.

According to a well known dairyman, buttermaking on the farm in hot weather has always been difficult, and the same holds true in most of the creameries. Heat injures the grain or body of the butter directly and the flavor indirectly.

Butter with poor body and poor flavor is displeasing and unprofitable. A good body can be secured at any time of the year if the temperature of the cream is low enough. Ice will take care of that. If ice is not used, well or spring water will answer the purpose if cool enough.

A few farmers have cellars so clean and cool that churning can be done successfully all summer. Those who churn on the ground floor can do vastly better work by churning early in the morning. The early morning air has almost magic gifts in this respect.

Avoiding a Bad Flavor.

But how avoid a bad flavor? More than 200 different kinds of germs have been found in milk by scientists. Most of them are harmless; some are beneficial. But even the helpful germs, the lactic acid germs, will spoil the cream if given time enough. Ripe cream makes delicious butter, but when overripe has a nauseous flavor. The secret of the whole matter is to churn before it becomes overripe.

There are three practices that have been proved helpful: First, churn early and often, so that fermentation will not have time to progress too far; second, hold the cream cold enough to retard souring; third, skim a rich cream with as little milk in it as possible. It is the milk serum, not the butter fat, which is food for the germs.

Working in the Dairy House.

A dairy house is needed and a cement floor. If built of hollow cement blocks, all the better. A small gasoline engine will run the separator and the churn and pump water. Turn the separator screw so as to skim a thick cream. Set the can of cream in a tank of cold water in the dairy house, this water being kept fresh and cold by the engine and the overflow running out for stock use.

Twice a week take the cream cans out of the tank, mix the cream thoroughly and let it warm up. At night set it back in the cold water tank and early next morning churn it. This method will work successfully. In a large dairy churning can be done every day, and ripening vats and combined churns are in order.

If you have not a good cellar for ice or cold water, making good butter in hot weather is out of the question. Do not try. Failure is sure. Get the conveniences. The essential conveniences are few and simple, as mentioned above. Get them and become master of the situation.

Treating Horses' Corns.

For corns in horses the only remedy is to protect the affected spot from the pressure of the shoe. Frequent shoeing, with careful paring away of the hardened hoof or corn, so that this particular region will not receive any more of the weight bearing than is absolutely unavoidable, is the point to be aimed at. In addition to this, the hoof should be kept as soft as practicable by applications of moisture to the whole foot. It is seldom that a complete cure is obtained, but with care little inconvenience will result from ordinary corns.

Feeding Separator Milk.

A farmer living in Minnesota says that many of his neighbors who have been feeding separator milk to their calves have found that the milk formed gas in the stomachs of the animals and caused trouble. As a remedy they use a teaspoonful of baking soda or saleratus to each pail of milk, and the calves do well on it. This is worth knowing.

Shelter Hogs From Hot Sun.

Every hog pasture ought to have an open shed on a high point of ground for shelter from the hot sun. Leave all sides open, so that the air can pass over them.

HORSE NOTES

Sponge the Horse Well.

Sponging a horse's eyes, face and nose three or four times a day during hot weather is refreshing and very beneficial.

Be Careful With Water.

It is much better to give a horse a small quantity of water when he comes hot from the field and an hour later give him all he can drink.

Use Box Stalls if Possible.

Always use box stalls whenever practicable. A horse tied in a narrow stall is never quite comfortable and is in more or less danger of being cast.

Handle Horses With Care.

Since their value depends to such a great extent upon their disposition good horses at least should be handled by those who know how to do it.

Train Colts Carefully.

While a colt may naturally be a good walker or a good trotter, yet it requires careful training to develop either of these special gifts to the best advantage.

Don't Harness a Green Colt.

It is a shame to put a green colt in harness and work him until he has a sore on his shoulders or anywhere else. It takes months to heal such a thing up; then it is liable to break out upon a slight amount of labor.

SARAH'S FIVE ACRES.

By M. QUAD.

(Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.)

Zeph Smith, bachelor, was a Long Island farmer, whose sister kept house for him. In a farmhouse almost across the highway from the Smith place lived Sarah White. Sarah was an old maid and lived with her father and mother.

One day Zeph lounged over to the other house and found Sarah sewing rags for a new carpet.

"Sarah, I think me 'n' you had better get married," he said.

It was sudden, and Sarah lost her needle. It was sudden, and Sarah blushed. Then she recovered her lost needle and looked up to reply:

"Well, Zeph, if you think best."

When Zeph went home and told his sister that he was to be married and she asked him when he carelessly replied:

"Oh, I can't say as to that, but it will come about some time."

After a year or so and after the neighbors had decided that there would be no match Zeph went over to spend an evening with his fiancée. It was popcorn night, and as they popped and ate he casually inquired:

"Sarah, me 'n' you are going to get married some day, ain't we?"

"I dunno," she replied.

"But of course we are. I asked you a whole year ago, and you said yes, and I shall hold you to it. By Jiminy, Sarah, but I think a heap of you!"

At the end of another year about the same performance was gone through with. Zeph didn't intend to be mean about it. It was just his way. If Sarah had got right up and said they must be married within two weeks or he could go to Texas they would have been wed. As long as she didn't, why hurry things up? Three years had almost passed away when the matter was taken out of their hands. Cupid was replaced by a tin peddler, and the latter proved that he could give the little god of love spades and cards and then win the game.

At the age of twenty Sarah had been left five acres of land bordering on Long Island sound. It was rocky and sandy and sterile.

One day the tin peddler heard of the case of Zeph and Sarah from a customer. He criticised Zeph and felt sorry for Sarah, and he determined to right things. Perhaps, he thought, that one good deed toward the end of his career would offset all the little tricks he had worked. He heard of the land at the same time he heard of the long and lingering engagement, and he wasn't half an hour laying plans. A week later he put up at a farmhouse a mile away, but near the five acres. Under the pretense of not feeling well he made a stay of two days. Then he drove to the house of Zeph Smith and was told by the sister in what field to find him. Zeph loved and admired tin peddlers. They were never in a hurry, and they had traveled and seen the world. He stopped his plowing to greet this one, and they were soon seated in the shade of a tree. The peddler was looking mysterious. He was looking around to see if anybody but the plow horses was present.

"Do you want money?" he finally whispered.

Zeph replied that he did.

"Have you ever heard of Captain Kidd?"

Zeph acknowledged his guilt.

"Do you know that he buried thousands of dollars within two miles of you?"

Zeph's mouth opened wide, and his eyes hung out.

"And I've got some of the coins! Look at these!"

He stretched out his hand, and on the palm rested three or four ancient coins.

"And—and what?" gasped the farmer after a long look.

"We'll dig them up together and divide even up. I might have done it alone, but you see I must have the consent of the owner of the land. I understand that you know her—Miss Sarah White?"

"Why, I'm going to marry her!"

"Gee, but that's fine! When is it to come off?"

"Oh, some time or other! No hurry about it."

"There isn't, eh? No hurry when I picked up these coins beside a big rock just above high water and feel sure there are boxes of them under the rock! No hurry when the next man may grab the whole thing! Why, I'll go over and buy the land from the woman myself!"

"Say, say, you hold on!" put in Zeph. "I won't let you buy it of her. I say I'm going to marry her!"

"But you can't wait a year or a month. You can't wait another day. Parties may land by that big rock any hour, and if they do—"

But Zeph was taking the horses from the plow. He mounted one and rode for the barn. By the time the peddler reached the house one had been hitched to a buggy and the farmer was in the house donning his Sunday suit. As he came out he said:

"I'll get Sarah and drive to the preacher's and have the knot tied. You wait here."

Sarah was skimming milk, but she got a hustle on her, and horse, buggy and the two loving hearts disappeared in the direction of the village in a cloud of dust. Then the peddler mounted his wagon and drove in the opposite direction. Zeph had looked in vain for that treasure, but all agree that he has found a good wife. The peddler lied, of course, but who wouldn't lie to make two people happy for life?

OVERTAXED

Hundreds of Gettysburg Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed; Have too much to do. They tell about it in many aches and pains—

Backache, sideache, headache. Early symptoms of kidney ills. Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

A Gettysburg citizen tells here the way to keep the kidneys well.

Mrs. James Bumbough, 126 E. Middle Street, Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I can confirm all I said in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills two years ago, when I gave a public statement, recommending them. My system was filled with uric acid and in the morning I was so stiff and lame that I could hardly get out of bed. My joints were swollen and the kidney secretions caused me much annoyance by their irregularity in passage. Acting on the advice of a friend, I finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the People's Drug Store. They helped me from the first and gradually the symptoms of my trouble disappeared until I was well. I urge anyone suffering from kidney complaint, to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

There has yet to be found any form of wound or disease affecting the skin or mucous membrane that Hokara does not heal, and its action is instantaneous that those who try it are simply delighted with it right from the start.

In spite of its unusual curative powers, the price is trifling. To convince every one of its merits, L. M. Buehler will sell a liberal-sized jar for 25c; larger size 50c.
